

It is widely recognized in the academy that we don't need to be first causes or uncaused causers to be held responsible and have standards of right and wrong. Holding each other responsible is one important way we are caused to behave responsibly and ethically.

-- Thomas W. Clark

Tradition: Humanism

